

Events at Sea®

Today's ships are floating conference centers equipped with everything you need to host an unforgettable conference, convention or business meeting with the team of experts from our Events at Sea® division.

Whether your meeting is for 50 or 3,000, spacious, well-designed cruise conference facilities provide the perfect mix of business and pleasure. Whether you require theatre-style seating for lectures, elaborate presentations, awards ceremonies, classrooms, a boardroom setting, or all of the above, an Events at Sea® cruise has just what you're looking for. Some ships even offer multi-lingual translation via wireless transmitter and headsets and interactive, audience keypads at no extra charge.

Cruise ships are also well-connected to the Internet through the latest satellite technology. You can access the web and email through the ship's computers or bring your laptop and plug in directly from your stateroom.

If your company wants to combine a good deal of business with a great deal of pleasure, we can create the most productive meeting environment imaginable. Cruise ships are floating conference centers with large rooms and theatres that can accommodate general sessions, smaller venues for breakout meetings, and board rooms for executive retreats. Managing the budget is also much easier as the cost of meals, accommodations, AV equipment, and meeting rooms are all included. An Events at Sea® cruise brings colleagues closer together, yet everyone still has time for themselves. Most cruise lines even provide the professional assistance of a Conference Services Coordinator during your entire event.

Our Events at Sea® division provides a professional, step-by-step approach to coordinating all aspects of your cruise conference event. It begins with a thorough consultation to understand the needs of your group and the overall budget. We then conduct extensive research to provide a recommendation that best suits your needs.
